

Pancreas Song

Let us all sing the praises of the pancreas,
It has never been an organ of distinction,
Though it functions day by day in the most delightful way,
It has never had the glory that the liver has.

Let us all raise our glasses to the pancreas,
Just secreting alkali and digestive juices,
Into the intestine, just to neutralize the stomach acid,
That could be remaining on the food.

Oh Pancreas, Oh Pancreas, you are my favorite organ.
Oh Pancreas, Hey Pancreas, I can't think of anything that rhymes with organ.

Coming out from the lonely aisles of Langerwood,
Comes the insulin that regulates the sugar in the blood,
And that's why how high I rank it
Think I'll drop a note to thank it,
May you never have a cranky pancreas.

Hey Pancreas, Hey Pancreas, have a nice day.
